

DR. FISCHER BOCKSTEIN OCKFEN KABINETT

| Region | Soil | Elevation | Alcohol |
|--------|----------------|----------------|---------|
| Mosel | Gravelly Slate | 100–175 Meters | 9% |

Vineyard Selected Mosel Vineyards

Grape Varieties Riesling

Vinification The “Grosse Lage” is the designation for the very best German vineyards. The sites are precisely demarcated vineyard parcels. It is here that the best wines ripen, wines that express a unique vineyard origin and possess exceptional ageing potential. The “Bockstein” vineyard is located in a side valley of Saar and forms a natural south to southwest facing amphitheatre above the village of Ockfen. The soil is comprised predominantly of hard, weathered, gravelly slate. Wines that grow in the “Bockstein” exhibit floral components reminiscent of elderflower, lilac, and violets as well as a salty-smoky mineral character.

Kabinett is the first late-harvest predicate. Ripe, healthy grapes ripen and are selected and harvested by hand.

In March 2014, Martin Foradori Hofstätter seized the welcome opportunity to revitalize the historic “Weingut Dr. Fischer” on the Saar. The small winery cultivates Riesling in the top class, steep sites “Bockstein” and “Saarburger Kupp”. “In the greatest vintages, the best Mosel wine comes from the Saar,” is a regional vintner saying.

Age of Vines 5-35 years

Tasting Notes Exhibits floral components reminiscent of elderflower, lilac, and violets as well as a salty-smoky mineral character.

Reviews N/A

M·S WALKER
SINCE 1933