

DR. FISCHER STEINBOCK RIESLING

Region	Soil	Elevation	Alcohol
Mosel	Devonian Eroded Slates	100–175 Meters	11%

Vineyard Selected Mosel Vineyards

Grape Varieties Riesling

Vinification The “Steinbock Selection Dr. Fischer” was born from the commitment of the Alto Adige vintner Martin Foradori Hofstätter. In March 2014, he took the opportunity to revive the traditional German estate “Weingut Dr. Fischer”.

The Moselle River rises from the Vosges Mountains and meanders a total of 314 km through northeast France. It marks the border between Germany and Luxembourg and then becomes an exclusively German river near Trier. In Koblenz it finally flows into the Rhine. The Mosel (Moselle) and its tributaries Saar and Ruwer are world renowned for their wines. The most important grape variety of the region is Riesling and there is no place it thrives better than in these exceedingly steep slate vineyards.

Only Grapes from exquisite vineyards form the basis of the “Selection Dr. Fischer”.

Age of Vines 5–35 years

Tasting Notes The Riesling Steinbock reflects the typical characteristics of the region’s terroir and is a superb choice for approaching this unique grape variety.

Brilliant straw yellow color. Offers typical pineapple and citrus aromas with the classic minerality derived from slate. Soft and refreshing on the palate. This Riesling is a wine with striking minerality and an elegant body.

Reviews N/A

M·S WALKER
SINCE 1933